(1) Working group methodology

The PDCI focuses on smart public incentive schemes, effective regulatory frameworks and innovative financial mechanisms to unlock more private climate investments. The key question of the dialogue process will be "How can private climate investments take off?".

During the working process of the 1st PDCI the different framework conditions influencing private climate investments will be visualized by a means of a "glider graphic". The graphic will be used throughout all of the working groups and will form the basis of the discussions and development of ideas:

Contributors will utilise the above-illustrated “glider graphic” as a basis, to describe their solution to the question asked in the working group.

In each working group about 30 minutes of discussion time are foreseen, in which all participants are welcome to comment and further develop the suggested solutions, based on their own experience and background.

The GIZ in cooperation with the Indonesian Chamber of Commerce and Industry (KADIN) is hosting the 1st Practitioners Dialogue on Climate Investments on 8–9 October following directly from the 3rd Sustainable Business Dialogue on 7 October. Building on the results of the Lead-Up Event in Bonn, Germany on 9–10 June, the 1st PDCI aims to

- bring together practitioners from national governments and the business and financial sector and facilitate cross-sectoral exchanges and networking;
- provide an international platform for presenting and discussing policy approaches, financial mechanisms and cooperation models that will mobilise private investment in renewable energy projects, energy-efficiency improvements and adaptation measures;
- enable participants to work in small expert groups on business opportunities, specific investment challenges and the particular role of governments in overcoming barriers to investment;
- advance concrete initiatives and ideas for action that can be supported by GIZ.

During the 1st PDCI, participants will develop concrete ideas for actions and transfer projects for the future working process of the PDCI.
